REDECORATE, REMODEL—AND RE-INVENT—YOUR ROOM

Even if you're not a believer in Feng Shui, there's no denying that how we decorate our homes affects how we feel. It just makes sense that surrounding ourselves with things we love makes us feel good. But what if we don't really know what we love, let alone how to put it together? That's where an interior decorator and designer like Neela Woodard come in. Woodard recently opened up her own full service interior design and decoration firm in West Orange. Working from the belief that the right interior can help people lead a happier, more enjoyable life, she concentrates on learning how her clients use their space, and what they love to see around them.

"I like to create custom environments that can last a lifetime," Woodard says. "We create warm and inviting atmospheres." Her design company takes on projects large and small—everything from redecorating or remodeling an entire home, to helping with the design of a window treatment. "My aim is to make your home into a place that is both stylish and comfortable," Woodard says. Take advantage of the free in-home consultation and soon you could find yourself in beautiful surroundings that make you feel good.
